

Nutrition for healthcare professionals:

Achieving healthcare through diet

A joint event of the Sabri Ülker Foundation and
The Nutrition Society

To be held in Istanbul, Turkey and online on the 25th and 26th of May, 2022

The primary objective of this event will be to inspire healthcare professionals to better consider the role of nutrition in achieving and maintaining optimum health.

Leading experts from Finland, Turkey, the UK and USA will present the latest research and perspectives on a range of topics including the current nutritional status of our populations.

Examples of best practice and future opportunities will be shared in a format that can be adopted by healthcare professionals in their interactions with patients and by the general public at large.

The registration will be free for all online delegates
